If you need storage and think mini-storage is the answer — think again. Why spend your valuable time finding a friend with a truck or spending additional money to rent one from a local dealer, when PODS brings the storage right to your front door. You no longer need to make multiple trips across town to the storage unit or worry about lifting heavy items into the back of a truck. PODS has found a way to make storage convenient by giving you time to load and then we do the rest.

Storing with mini storage.

- 1 Get ready, you're going to have to load up a truck or van and then unload it at the mini-storage.
- 2 You need to shop around to find the cheapest storage.
- 3 Make sure the location is near you — careful, they're often in a sketchy part of town.
- 4 Make sure the facility is clean and secure, because your precious valuables may be here for a while.
- 5 You have to either get a friend to help you or rent a truck. (See why renting a truck is so much work?)
- 6 Depending on the truck, you'll probably have to lift all those heavy things to get them in the truck — your back remembers the last time you tried that. Ouch!
- 7 Can all your stuff fit in one load? You'll probably have to take multiple trips back and forth to the mini storage.
- 8 Most people plan to store their belongings for just a few months, but end up storing them for 12 months or more because it's such a pain to remove everything — think about those costs!
- 9 If you move, you'll need to pack and repack instead of having a PODS® container “move with you.” With PODS you pack one time — no repacking.
