

Relay for Life & PODS Team Up!

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life is a fun-filled, life-changing, overnight event that gives the community a chance to celebrate the lives of people who have battled cancer, to remember loved ones lost, and to fight back against this devastating disease. Teams of family members, friends and co-workers join together each year to raise funds and increase awareness for the American Cancer Society. The Gwinnett Relay for Life is the largest event of its kind in the world, with 10,000 - 12,000 caring people attending each year. The event has raised over $28 million over the past 18 years for patient services and programs and cutting-edge research.

PODS Atlanta, owned by Ed McCrady, supported the Relay for Life cause by donating a PODS brand storage container for the storage of event management and logistical supplies. He said, "We at PODS always strive to be a good community partner. We are proud to be working with The American Cancer Society Relay for Life."

This year, the Gwinnett Relay for Life kicked off at 7 pm on Friday, May 6th with a survivor's victory lap. Approximately 1800 survivors and their caregivers took the first lap. There was a luminary ceremony honoring those touched by cancer, bagpipers, an entertainment stage, activities and food, which continued throughout the night, while team campsites continued to raise funds at the event. When the event ended early morning on Saturday, May 7th, Linda Story, Senior Income Manager with the American Cancer Society stated that "It was with the beginning of a brand new day of hope that we will be closer to a cure. The Relay was an experience that changed lives."

About American Cancer Society

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives, and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy, and service.
